A freak election better in Ohio goes into an insane asylum for a week to fulfill a wager. But isn't this rather rough on the genuine inmates?—Exchange.

Almost every one familiar with the recent political history of the State understands the nature of the "pull" which the State printer had with the Jennings administration; what is as yet unexplained is the character of his "pull" with that of Governor Broward, of which he has boasted.

Zephyr, Shetland Floss and Ice Wool at R. J. Evans'. 39-4t

From the nature of the circumstances by which he was surrounded at Pensacola, State Health Officer Porter was prevented from noticing the vicious knockings he received while in the discharge of his official duties; no one will blame him if, in his official report of the yellow fever episode, he should take occasion to retaliate upon his accusers.

The residence of Rev. J. B. Ley caught fire at Live Oak several days ago, and only the quick and effective work of Mrs. Ley and her neighbors saved the home. The fire caught from a defective flue and a place about five feet square burned before the fire was put out. Mrs. Ley was much excited at the time, but worked with others to save her home. Mr. Ley knew nothing of the fire until some time after it had been put out.

Governor Pennypacker has called the Pennsylvania Legislature together for the purpose of effecting some reforms decreed at the ballot box. Last winter when this same body was in session it was necessary to telegraph to an absent leader in Florida to prevent the passage of an obnoxious bill. Word came back and the bill was killed. Now some optimists expect the members will act on their own judgment, as the leaders are too ill to boss the jobs.—Independent.

Sweaters and Skirts, the cheapest you ever saw, at James'. 39-4t

We spent a most pleasant afternoon last Sunday with Mr. G. G. Gibbs, walking over his excellent plantation. Besides his many and varied productions, he has gathered and sold so far this year eight barrels of nice pecans and has several barrels more to dispose of. Beetles are cutting the ends of pecan limbs off at an alarming rate, and Mr. Gibbs finds it hard to catch and kill the beetles. He is having gathered up and burned every little limb the pests cut off, thus destroying their eggs. They first lay their eggs, then cut the limb off, so it will dry and the eggs hatch.

Mrs. Chadwick declares that, if an opportunity is again given her to go on the stand, she will tell without reservation all the facts concerning her financial dealings. "It has been repeatedly stated," said she, "that I borrowed more than $3,000,000. Whether or not this is true will be shown when I again take the stand in the bankruptcy court. There are a number of financiers who benefited very largely through the dealings with me. If I am to be punished, it is no more than right that some of these men should suffer with me, for if there was any violation of the law they are surely as guilty as I am."

GLEANINGS FROM THE STATE PAPERS

Clipping and Comment on Several Interesting Topics.

It is a mistake to think the world is getting worse. People are simply finding out "where he got it."—Crawfordville Breeze.

And now the Jacksonville Bar Association has made a protest against the quality of the work done by the state printer. Seem to be real lively times ahead for friend Hilson.—Starke Telegraph.

The State printer is being rightly roasted by the State press for turning out, as the True Democrat says, "the rottenest piece of public work ever turned out in the State of Florida."—Williston Advocate.

Editor Appleyard, of the Index, says that Billie Patterson was hit a-h-o-l of a lick. Nothing to compare with the solar plexus hits the Tallahassee True Democrat is handing to the State printer.—Lake Butler Star.

Those State officers, who have for four years, up to the present time, allowed such things and paid the people's money for it deserve as much censure if not more, than does the State printer. The printer is bad enough, heaven knows, but his official allies who made quite a play with a $12,500 certified check a few months ago to protect the dear people and guarantee good and prompt delivery, etc., are as much, if not more responsible for the present rotten state of public affairs.

If some of the patent medicines contain as much alcohol as is claimed by a few magazines, and only cost about nine cents to manufacture, where do they get the liquor? There must be a mix-up somewhere.—Gainesville Sun.

That was a tribute to the value of a newspaper, as well as to the publishers, which was shown by the business men of Live Oak to the Daily Democrat of that town when, twenty-four hours after the printing house had been burned, these business men raised $15,000, formed a stock company and put the old publishers and editors in charge of a new office to be started at once.—Orlando Reporter.

The crusade started some weeks ago by Collier's Weekly against patent medicines, and especially the class which are manufactured for sale in prohibition counties on account of the heavy percentage of alcohol which they contain, is stirring the patent medicine men throughout the country. Temperance people everywhere should join the crusade and if possible run the accused concoctions out of the country.—Bradentown Herald.

While Jennings was the Chief Executive of the State he made bold and daring efforts to enhance his chances to be United States Senator, and he cared little for the rights and interests of the people in so doing. He made such a stroke here in Volusia county in connection with the University scandal, but the people denounced him for such actions, and when the primary came for the people to name a candidate for United States Senator he received a very small vote from our people, indeed it was hardly large enough to count. The goods no doubt was promised him in Volusia county, but they were not given him by an indignant people.—DeLand Record.

Lake City ought to have requested Bartow or some other city affected by the Buckman bill to file the suit she has just instituted in the name of the Attorney-General of the State. Lake City insisted on the passage of the Buckman bill when she saw that she was to take from other school centers of the State what they had been laboring for years to build up, and move to Lake City. To assist Lake City came the talented and forceful Frank Adams, of Jasper, whose financial interests in Lake City are extensive. Had Lake City joined the other school towns in the State the bill would have been killed. But in her selfishness to grab everything she lost all. It is a clear case of wiggling in the grave that she dug for herself. Lake City has not the sympathy of any section of Florida in this fight. She lost this when she failed to accept the decision of a board which was created largely through her instrumentality. Live Oak once voted to have the University located at Lake City. This is not the sentiment to-day. The University has been located at Gainesville and there it ought to stay. Lake City's claims are nothing when compared with the interests of the State, and ought not to be considered.—Live Oak Daily Democrat.
